Sarah Hethcoat - Nobody Likes a Bully
(4 Out of 5)

With a background in theater, Sarah Hethcoat decided to take all of her vocal and performance qualities and assemble a band. So in 2008, that's exactly what she did. This California girl's recent October album, Nobody Likes a Bully, has made quite a splash even prior to its release. She's even been fortunate to have one of the songs featured on MTV's The Hills.

So more importantly, what does the music sound like? Well, let's say she definitely has a unique voice. Think lively pop/rock music matched with a little pouty voice and you'll get Sarah Hethcoat. Overall, I'd say not too bad for her first compilation. She definitely has that quality that makes you grow fond of her uniqueness and yet still allows you to rock out to the music. I give her a thumbs up.
